Tactics to organize

You can organize this essay in two ways.

- i. Point-by-Point technique
- ii. Block technique

Under the first method, arguments addressing the two objects (X and Y) are altered that have been compared or contrasted. The pattern is given below:

- Argument followed up by association among X and Y
- Point b – Discuss X
- Point b – Discuss Y
- Argument followed up by association among X and Y

Etc.

This approach is easier to understand for a reader as key differences and similarities are obvious. So, this method is often used by essayists to compose lengthy essays. A professional essay writer will know about all the necessary writing conventions for high quality papers.

Remember

Similar to the Block approach, the Point-by-point technique also provides an essay outline. An outstanding intro and conclusion must be included in the outline.

After going through the above way of comparing and contrasting objects, somehow you grasp the concept. But you need to make things clear and enhance your learning. You can also find help at “EssayHours”.

You can learn and polish your writing skills by getting your essay done by professional writers. It's quite simple as you just have to place a writing request at ‘do my papers’ that provides online writing services to students of all grades and write essays for them. The game is not over yet as we have to discuss another method i.e., the Block technique.

Under the block approach, all arguments about X are compared and contrasted to arguments about Y. But using this method in an essay is a little bit tough due to excessive space between points related to X as well as points related to Y, so normally preferred for short essays. The pattern is given below:

- Point a about X
- Point b about Y
- Etc.

- Point a about Y (linked to X)
- Point b about X (linked to Y)

Points to Ponder

- When you have to compare multiple objects, situations, or themes that are not similar to each other, you are supposed to use the pattern instead of organizing by an object.
- In both types of this essay, classify object by object in which you will outline all the key aspects of the first object thoroughly before stepping in towards the next object.
- You could even have a single paragraph of similarities rather than making a separate section to express each point of contrast. The same approach could apply to addressing the key differences.

But still, if you feel any confusion in comparing and contrasting distinct objects, then you should not be worried because there is a solution to this problem too. All you need is to approach any authentic essay writing service that provides online services to cater to your writing request within a few hours and don't forget to ask how much is an essay.
